

Sat. Mar. 31, 2001

Dear Bill, Sharon & boys,

Just a note to thank you again for the fine steaks, knives, and Gerbera Daisies. We had a very good anniversary. Enclosed are the newspaper clippings, and thank you for doing that too. We have received many beautiful cards as a result. Shirley Crow even sent a nice card. She lives in Tilton now - John has been dead a long while. I haven't seen her for years. I haven't used my new George Foreman grill yet - I guess I am a little afraid of it. I'll practice on burgers before I put one of those beautiful steaks on it.

Tracy wrote that she and Neal had to put their Beagle Sadie to sleep - she had a cancerous tumor - and they are all grieving. She was 13 years old. You know how that goes.

Probably by now you have heard from Gary regarding getting our reservations "on-line" at the Fairfield Inn for May 19. That is the cheapest way. The girl at the desk told me so.

If not - get ahead of her - I gave her all the dope. See you soon,

Love,

Mom and Dad

Pierre Auguste Renoir (1841-1919)
The Luncheon of the Boating Party, 1881
Oil on canvas, 51 x 68 in. (129.5 x 172.7 cm)
© 1997 The Phillips Collection, Washington D.C.
(acc. no. 1637)

Published by Galison Books
New York, NY
www.galison.com
877X/150
PRINTED IN HONG KONG